

Think like a team. Win like a team.

When dog, owner and vet work together, Cushing's is on the losing side.

Winning the battle against Cushing's should be a team effort.

By working with the owner, you can carefully build a picture of the dog's clinical response at home, understand how owners feel about the impact of Cushing's on them and their dog, and measure how it changes over the course of Vetoryl treatment.

Get the treatment right, and for the dog, life's a whole different ball game.
